

INDEX

Volume 66
September 1994 - May 1995

Titles

| | |
|---|-----------|
| The actor's nightmare: it's only a dream, by Ben Fanton | January |
| Alternatives: other ways to have a theatre summer | February |
| American Enterprise , by Jeffrey Sweet (play) | September |
| Art and politics: what's at stake in the fight over NEA, by Ezra Goldstein | April |
| The audition: college reps talk about what they want (and don't want) to see, by Julie York | December |
| Blood on the pages: Playworks gets student scripts up on their feet, by Don Corathers | October |
| Blowing up the scenery: the grid method for transfer and layout, by Steve Nelson | November |
| Blowing up the scenery: part two, the projection method, by Steve Nelson | January |
| Book reviews: | |
| Actors' Lives: On and Off the American Stage , by Holly Hill (Julie York) | November |
| Conversations in the Wings: Talking About Acting , by Roy Harris (Julie York) | November |
| Horton Foote: Four New Plays (Dan Blegen) | November |
| Instant Acting , by Jeremy Whelan (Julie York) | March |
| The Joy of Phonetics and Accents , by Louis Colaianni (Dorothy Chansky) | March |
| Kiss and Tell: Restoration Monologues, Scenes and Historical Context , edited by Michael Bigelow Dixon and Michele Volansky (Dan Blegen) | November |
| The Magic of Theatre: Behind the Scenes with Today's Leading Actors , by David Black (Julie York) | November |
| The Theatre Lover's Cookbook: Recipes from 60 Favorite Plays , by Mollie Ann Meserve and Walter J. Meserve (Louis E. Catron) | November |
| Voice: Onstage and Off , by Robert Barton and Rocco Dal Vera (Dorothy Chansky) | March |
| The boy in the bell jar: being a child star is a lot like being in prison, by Lonnie Burr | March |
| Brain Sucking , by Stephen Bittrich (play) | April |
| The case for actors as playwrights, by Jeffrey Sweet | March |
| Celebrate school theatre in March | January |
| Characterization: essential link between homework and action, by Rena Cook | May |
| Choosing a place to study theatre, by Julie York | December |
| 1995 College Theatre Directory | December |
| A conversation with Sam Waterston: a versatile, accomplished actor talks about his work, by Tony Vellela | September |
| Deadlines and bottom lines: for artistic director Jack O'Brien, there's more to it than art, by Leonard Novaro | October |
| The delicate negotiation: 'You're going to major in what?', by Julie York | December |
| Devoted to Shakespeare: Brian Bedford uses the plays and sonnets to paint a portrait, by David Lampe-Wilson | September |
| The director's friend: how (and why) to prepare a character plot before rehearsal, by Ed Lange | September |
| Everyone can dance: notes for the movement challenged, by Lonnie Burr | October |
| Flambée , by James Buescher (play) | November |
| Friday in class with Steve: Sondheim offers inspiration and advice to Dallas students, by Larry Bleiberg | January |
| God and Poker , by Christopher McNeil (play) | October |
| Hard times for mimes: once golden, silence now just seems dumb, by Julie York | October |

| | |
|---|-------------------|
| How to tell good acting from bad: four directors in search of a definition, by Harvey Widell | September |
| Humor scores: fun and fulfilling, ComedySportz marks its tenth birthday, by Jon Tomas | November |
| The Idiot and the Oddity , by Doug Rand (play) | January |
| The life behind the Living Stage: after three revolutionary decades, Robert Alexander steps down as director, by Amy Schatz | May |
| The Less Than Human Club , by Timothy Mason (play) | March |
| Making it work: Dana Ivey talks about the actor's first obligation, by Tony Vellela | March |
| Paying for it: organization and persistence pay off in aid search | December |
| Playing objectives: the actor's question: what do I want?, by Rena Cook | November |
| The play survey: after the top twenty, the school theatre repertory gets more interesting | November |
| Puppet master: the strange and wonderful vision of Theodora Skipitares, by Dorothy Chansky | May |
| Redefining Theatre: director Anne Bogart wants tomorrow on stage today, by James Palmarini | May |
| Remembering Viola: students and friends pay tribute to the mother of all theatre games, by Robert Moyer | May |
| Road music: a bus and truck tour journal, by Katherine Shirek Doughtie | April |
| Scars & Stripes , by Thomas Cadwalader Jones (play) | May |
| The stage fight: a guide to safe Thespian thrashing, by Braun McAsh (series) | March, April, May |
| Stepping outside the lines: New York's Urban Bush Women explore traditions, explode conventions, by Julie York | April |
| Stuart Ostrow's Broadway journey: a veteran producer reflects on the state of the theatre, by Stuart Ostrow (speech) | November |
| 1995 Summer Theatre Directory | February |
| Taking care of Mr. Mason's baby: an actor's journal, by Kristin Schwartz | March |
| Teaching playwrighting: four writers on writing, and learning how, by James Palmarini | October |
| Theatre education in Europe: what Western Civilization is doing to keep itself going, by Nancy Bishop | November |
| Thespian Festival '94, DRAMATICS staff | October |
| '95 Thespian Festival moving to Nebraska | September |
| The techie prepares: while your actor friends rehearse monologues, polish that portfolio, by Steve Nelson | December |
| Tony Randall, by Don Corathers | January |
| Virtual Theatre: an acting studio becomes Grover's Corners in a new improvisational workshop, by Alexis Greene | May |
| Voice: keeping the vocal instrument in tune, by Diane Seymour | April |
| The where of acting: putting your character in his place, by Rena Cook | January |
| Who said that? a quiz, by Harvey Widell | January |

Authors

| | |
|--|----------|
| Bishop, Nancy: Theatre education in Europe | November |
| Bittrich, Stephen: Brain Sucking (play) | April |
| Blegen, Dan: | |
| Book reviews: | |

| | |
|--|-------------------|
| Horton Foote: Four New Plays | November |
| Kiss and Tell: Restoration Monologues, Scenes and Historical Context , edited by Michael Bigelow Dixon and Michele Volansky | November |
| Bleiberg, Larry: Friday in class with Steve: Sondheim offers inspiration and advice to Dallas students | January |
| Burr, Lonnie: The boy in the bell jar: being a child star is a lot like being in prison | March |
| Everyone can dance: notes for the movement challenged | October |
| Buescher, James: Flambee (play) | November |
| Catron, Louis E.: Book review: The Theatre Lover's Cookbook: Recipes from 60 Favorite Plays , by Mollie Ann Meserve and Walter J. Meserve | November |
| Chansky, Dorothy: Book reviews: The Joy of Phonetics and Accents , by Louis Colaianni | March |
| Voice: Onstage and Off , by Robert Barton and Rocco Dal Vera | March |
| Puppet master: Theodora Skiptares | May |
| Cook, Rena: Playing objectives: the actor's question: what do I want? | November |
| The where of acting: putting your character in his place | January |
| Characterization: essential link between homework and action | May |
| Corathers, Don: Blood on the pages: Playworks gets student scripts up on their feet | October |
| Tony Randall | January |
| Doughtie, Katherine Shirek: Road Music: a bus and truck tour journal | April |
| Fanton, Ben: The actor's nightmare: it's only a dream | January |
| Greene, Alexis: Virtual Theatre: a new improvisational workshop | May |
| Goldstein, Ezra: Art and politics: what's at stake in the fight over NEA | April |
| Jones, Thomas Cadwaleder: Scars & Stripes (play) | May |
| Lampe-Wilson, David: Devoted to Shakespeare: Brian Bedford | September |
| Lange, Ed: The director's friend: how to prepare a character plot | September |
| Mason, Timothy: The Less Than Human Club (play) | March |
| McAsh, Braun: The stage fight (series) | March, April, May |
| McNeil, Christopher: God and Poker (play) | October |
| Moyer, Robert: Remembering Viola: students and friends pay tribute to the mother of all theatre games | May |
| Nelson, Steve: Blowing up the scenery: the grid method for transfer and layout | November |
| Blowing up the scenery: part two, the projection method | January |
| The techie prepares: polish that portfolio | December |
| Novarro, Leonard: Deadlines and bottom lines: artistic director Jack O'Brien | October |
| Ostrow, Stuart: A veteran producer reflects on the state of theatre (speech) .. | November |
| Palmarini, James: Teaching playwriting: four writers on writing, and learning how | October |
| Redefining Theatre: director Anne Bogart | May |
| Rand, Doug: The Idiot and the Oddity (play) | January |
| Schatz, Amy: Robert Alexander | May |
| Schwartz, Kristin: Taking care of Mr. Mason's baby: an actor's journal | March |
| Seymour, Diane: Voice: keeping the vocal instrument in tune | April |
| Sweet, Jeffrey: American Enterprise (play) | September |
| The case for actors as playwrights | March |
| Tomas, Jon: Humor scores: ComedySportz marks its tenth birthday | November |
| Vellela, Tony: A conversation with Sam Waterston | September |
| Making it work: Dana Ivey talks about the actor's first obligation | March |
| Widell, Harvey: How to tell good acting from bad: four directors in search of a definition | September |
| Who said that? a quiz | January |
| York, Julie: The audition: college reps talk about what they want to see | December |
| Book reviews: Actors' Lives: On and Off the American Stage , by Holly Hill | November |
| Conversations in the Wings: Talking about Acting , by Roy Harris | November |
| The Magic of Theater: Behind the Scenes with Today's Leading Actors , by David Black | November |
| Instant Acting , by Jeremy Whelan | March |
| Choosing a place to study theatre | December |
| The delicate negotiation: 'You're going to major in what?' | December |
| Hard times for mimes: once golden, silence now just seems dumb | October |
| Stepping outside the lines: New York's Urban Bush Women | April |

Subjects

Acting and directing

| | |
|--|-------------------|
| Characterization: essential link between homework and action, by Rena Cook | May |
| The director's friend: how (and why) to prepare a character plot before rehearsal, by Ed Lange | September |
| Everyone can dance: notes for the movement challenged, by Lonnie Burr | October |
| How to tell good acting from bad: four directors in search of a definition, by Harvey Widell | September |
| Playing objectives: the actor's question: what do I want?, by Rena Cook | November |
| The stage fight, by Braun McAsh (series) | March, April, May |
| Taking care of Mr. Mason's baby: an actor's journal, by Kristin Schwartz | March |
| Voice: keeping the vocal instrument in tune, by Diane Seymour | April |
| The where of acting: putting your character in his place, by Rena Cook | January |

College

| | |
|---|----------|
| The audition: college reps talk about what they want to see, by Julie York .. | December |
| Choosing a place to study theatre, by Julie York | December |
| The delicate negotiation: 'You're going to major in what?', by Julie York | December |
| Paying for it: organization and persistence pay off in aid search | December |
| The techie prepares: polish that portfolio, by Steve Nelson | December |

Directories

| | |
|--------------------------------------|----------|
| 1995 College Theatre Directory | December |
| 1995 Summer Theatre Directory | February |

Interviews and profiles

| | |
|---|-----------|
| A conversation with Sam Waterston, by Tony Vellela | September |
| Deadlines and bottom lines: for artistic director Jack O'Brien, there's more to it than art, by Leonard Novarro | October |
| Devoted to Shakespeare: Brian Bedford uses the plays and sonnets to paint a portrait, by David Lampe-Wilson | September |
| Making it work: Dana Ivey talks about the actor's first obligation, by Tony Vellela | March |
| Puppet master: the strange and wonderful vision of Theodora Skiptares, by Dorothy Chansky | May |
| Redefining Theatre: director Anne Bogart, by James Palmarini | May |
| Tony Randall, by Don Corathers | January |

Miscellany

| | |
|--|----------|
| The actor's nightmare: it's only a dream, by Ben Fanton | January |
| Alternatives: other ways to have a theatre summer | February |
| The boy in the bell jar: being a child star is a lot like being in prison, by Lonnie Burr | March |
| Hard times for mimes: once golden, silence now just seems dumb, by Julie York | October |
| Road music: a bus and truck tour journal, by Katherine Shirek Doughtie | April |
| Stuart Ostrow's Broadway Journey: a veteran producer reflects on the state of the theatre, by Stuart Ostrow (speech) | November |
| Who said that? a quiz, by Harvey Widell | January |

Plays

| | |
|---|-----------|
| American Enterprise , by Jeffrey Sweet | September |
| Brain Sucking , by Stephen Bittrich | April |
| Flambee , by James Buescher | November |
| God and Poker , by Christopher McNeil | October |
| The Idiot and the Oddity , by Doug Rand | January |
| The Less Than Human Club , by Timothy Mason | March |
| Scars & Stripes , by Thomas Cadwaleder Jones | May |

Playwriting

| | |
|---|---------|
| The case for actors as playwrights, by Jeffrey Sweet | March |
| Teaching playwriting: four writers on writing, and learning how, by James Palmarini | October |

Reports

| | |
|--|-----------|
| Art and politics: what's at stake in the fight over NEA, by Ezra Goldstein | April |
| Blood on the pages: Playworks gets student scripts up on their feet, by Don Corathers | October |
| Celebrate School Theatre in March | January |
| Friday in class with Steve: Sondheim offers inspiration and advice to Dallas students, by Larry Bleiberg | January |
| Humor scores: ComedySportz marks its tenth birthday, by Jon Tomas | November |
| The play survey | November |
| Remembering Viola: students and friends pay tribute to the mother of all theatre games, by Robert Moyer | May |
| Stepping outside the lines: New York's Urban Bush Women, by Julie York | April |
| Theatre education in Europe, by Nancy Bishop | November |
| Thespian Festival '95 | October |
| Virtual Theatre: an acting studio becomes Grover's Corners in a new improvisational workshop, by Alexis Greene | May |
| '95 Thespian Festival moving to Nebraska | September |

Reviews

| | |
|---|----------|
| Book reviews: Conversations in the Wings: Talking About Acting , by Roy Harris; The Magic of Theater: Behind the Scenes with Today's Leading Actors , by David Black; and Actors' Lives: On and Off the American Stage , by Holly Hill (Julie York) | November |
| Instant Acting , by Jeremy Whelan (Julie York) | March |
| The Joy of Phonetics and Accents , by Louis Colaianni (Dorothy Chansky) | March |
| The Theatre Lover's Cookbook: Recipes from 60 Favorite Plays , by Mollie Ann Meserve and Walter J. Meserve (Louis E. Catron) | November |
| Voice: Onstage and Off , by Robert Barton and Rocco Dal Vera (Dorothy Chansky) | March |

Script reviews

| | |
|---|----------|
| Horton Foote: Four New Plays (Dan Blegen) | November |
| Kiss and Tell: Restoration Monologues, Scenes and Historical Context , edited by Michael Bigelow Dixon and Michele Volansky (Dan Blegen) | November |

Tech Theatre

| | |
|--|----------|
| Blowing up the scenery: the grid method for transfer and layout, by Steve Nelson | November |
| Blowing up the scenery: part two, the projection method, by Steve Nelson | January |

